Ideas for Action

Get out of your head (and into theirs)

Think about how you can be useful to others. Ask yourself:

What's the most useful thing I can say?

What is the most useful way I can say it?

Be intentional about your style

Choose two words that represent how you want people to perceive you when you present (e.g. 'optimistic' or 'credible'). Think about how the words you say and the way you say them can create that impression.
